The Queen wishes me to write and thank you for your letter and the handmade cards you sent for Her Majesty's ninety-second birthday.

The Queen was interested to hear about the competition which invited local students to create a special greeting for this occasion, and Her Majesty was pleased to receive some examples of the splendid cards submitted.

The Queen greatly appreciates the care each student has taken with their artwork, and is most grateful to all of those who took part in the competition for their thought for her at this time.

I am to thank you again for your kind messages and for writing as you did.
